

Masthead Logo

The Iowa Review

---

Volume 4
Issue 2 Spring

---

Article 35

1973

Poem E

Mier Wieseltier

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Wieseltier, Mier. "Poem E." The Iowa Review 4.2 (1973): 70-70. Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.1519>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

Poem D

Auschwitz, I heard that you're in style.
Nice men talk about you with respect.
A little more, and you will be so swaddled
In paper leaves
That you will crunch like driven snow.
Everything will be whitest white, but for the printed letters
Sieg-heiling goose-stepping battalions.

Poem E

I saw them, three baby-faced Germans
Nestling in a Cafe in Notre Dame,
So fresh upon the morning
Three baby-faced Germans,
Their hair the smell of the field,
Their faces unshod.

The rain came down on town and the Seine,
Flushing paved streets
Stale spit and yesterday's headlines
Down gutters,
Beating on Notre Dame and Seine,
Dripping down lashes of passers-by
Who glided like weeping columns
In windowpanes on squeaking hinges,
Facing them, the baby-faced Germans.